Excerpt: .not bear out that accusation; when he declared in his speech to the parliament last November that we are not and we will not be the instruments of any foreign political policy he was telling the truth. But France is the great reliance of those who are menaced by a possible future expansion of Germany; and perhaps the most difficult diplomatic duty of the Czechoslovak government in the past year or two has been the maintenance of good relations with France while deftly evading the constant efforts of French diplomacy to bend the succession states to the service of purely French, rather than common interest; to be a friend of France but not a servant. So far, that task has been performed with signal success. Leadership Among the Slavs. To the Slav, being a Slav is a kind religion, quite incomprehensible to those of...
