Not illustrated. 1830 Excerpt: . . . CHAPTER XL Although Oberlin had some peculiarities, in his religious belief, he preached all the important evangelical doctrines. He especially loved to speak of God as his Father u Qilt Father, as he would often say, and thus we may always feel him to be. He dwelt much upon sanctification, ; the willingness of Christ to receive all who come to him in sincerity of heart; the efficacy of prayer, and the necessity of divine grace. He was accustomed to preach very earnestly on the future judgment, and the punishment of the wicked; holding out at the same time the love of God, through Jesus Christ, to the returning sinner. In his manner of preaching he was very plain, Bo that all his hearers could understand him; frequently introducing anecdotes of pious persons, and illustrating spiritual things from nature. But the Bible, the dear Bible, as he said, was the grand source of all his instructions. He quoted largely from it, and used great care in explaining it. His sermons on the afternoons of Sunday¹ were prin cipally intended for the. young, at which time he always catechized them. , The following is a translation of one of the hymns that were sung in his church O Lord, thy heavenly grace, impart, And fix my frail inconstant heart; Henceforth my chief desire shall be, , . To dedicate myself to Thee! To Thee, my God, to Thee! s Whateer pursuits my time employ, One thought...
